

June 25, 2015 – Dwell in the Secret Place

I know it has been a trying week for many people, and very tumultuous for others. But tonight, I just sense the quiet presence of God so near me. I just want you to sit in the quiet, whisper to Him how much you love Him, and wait as He wraps you in His love. I can say that I truly believe we have entered a New Day of some kind in the spirit. I have been sensing this all week. There is a closeness I feel, like He is shadowing me. But this is not just something for me, this is a new place for the Body of Christ. Our King is moving on our behalf in a way that is so beautiful, because in the midst of the hardships and heartaches, we are gaining His presence. We are being invited to not only visit the Secret Place with Him, we are being invited to now DWELL there. This is a constant connection to His heart, His presence, His Glory, and we will never be the same again.

I hear engines revving in the spirit realm even now, as God is fine tuning Power Ministries about to be released in unprecedented power and number. We are about to understand "Kingdom" like we never have before. So be still, soak it up, be immersed in the reality of this, it is not just words, but will be demonstrated very, very soon. Joe and I love you all, have a beautiful evening in the Lord's presence. Amen.

Just have to add this. I'm just sitting here worshiping the Lord and am seeing beautiful royal garments coming down from heaven and being wrapped around God's children! We are being marked in the Spirit by our Daddy! We are the royal children of the God of all. Oh how I marvel at His plan of redemption, His plan to bring His family to himself...it is truly too wonderful for me to comprehend. Just reach your hands up and let Him slip your royal robes upon you tonight! You have been destined for greatness, and your time approaches. The fulfillment of destiny is at the door tonight! Just receive it! This is a faith thing, just receive it.